CAMBRIDGE HIGH AND LATIN SCHOOL

Headmaster

The four years which we have spent in Cambridge High and Latin School have been made profitable by the understanding and patience of our captain, the headmaster, Mr. Cleveland. He has shown himself always kind and just in solving our problems and guiding us in our long trip. When we grounded upon hidden shoals, his ready assistance came to rescue us and set us on our course once more, directing us ever onward.

Mr. Cleveland's guidance is invaluable in helping us chart our courses after we leave our ship and become the captains of our own little skiffs on the choppy seas.

What more can we say than that we wish that we may always strive to attain the standards which he has given us?

Dedication

As a token of our deep appreciation of all the service and helpful advice which have been freely given us by our honored friend and master, we, the Class of 1932, dedicate this Year Book to

Prologue

The whistle is blowing, the bell is ringing, the intervals between the chugs of the engine are growing longer. Slowly but steadily the pilot is steering the boat into the harbor, the destination of a sea voyage which at times the passengers thought would never terminate. There is great jubilation among the voyagers for all are happy to have weathered safely so perilous and difficult a journey. In spite of the hardships of the trip, through the prudence of the pilot, the courage of the captain, the efficiency of the crew, and the good-will of all the passengers, those on board have made the voyage an agreeable and memorable experience. Some of the travelers are eagerly awaiting an opportunity to set forth on a short voyage; whereas others anticipate the excitement of a greater exploratory voyage over vaster unknown seas. As the journey draws to a close, however, the voyagers find themselves reluctant to abandon the association of their fellow-passengers whose friendships the perils and discoveries of the voyage have cemented.

In token, therefore, of their mutual friendship, the passengers have assembled their photographs with records of the outstanding events of the trip in this Year Book, which they hope will serve as a lasting remembrance of one of the most exciting yet pleasant voyages which has even been made on the Sea of Knowledge.

With words like these whose very thought
Doth seem a light to guide us on,
We'll take the upward course through life,
But ever-mindful, sailing on
Through all the roaring, raging sea
Into the haven far beyond
Where gleams a golden pedestal
Upon which rests a laurel crown.

And some will fall along the way,
Or founder on the hidden rocks,
And some will scarcely leave the port,
Though churning valiantly the sea
They'll still unmoving stay, full-rigged.
But there are some, an unknown few
Of us, who'll find the path through life
An easy sail o'er smoothest seas.

No matter how we make the trip,
We'll always keep in mind the thought
That if we strive with all our might
To reach the goal in spite of storms
And deep, deceptive eddies near,
We're sure to find the seas grow smooth
As we approach the crown, if we Remember to look up, not down.

Class Song

Like great white birds, the schooner spreads her sails
As o'er the sapphire deep the vessel glides,
Impelled on by the unseen force that bides
Amid the clouds; a good sea breeze prevails.

But yet without the tools of man it fails
To speed the passage of the ship. Skill guides
Her course and knowledge nautical provides
The means to fight with elemental gales.

We, too, have need of tools to help us live;
To combat ignorance, disease, and wrong,
Those elements which men have fought so long
With tools of language, science, history.

These instruments, oh school, to us you give,
To us, who to tomorrow's world belong,
That we may make the future great and strong,
May shape our course and hew our destiny.

FLORA MCLEAN

Music by B. F. G.

We embarked on the good ship "Thirty-Two" at Cambridge, Massachusetts, in September of the year 1928, bound for the far shores of "graduation," which we expected to reach in four years. We were full of pleasant anticipation, while dreams of great intellectual and athletic prowess gave us much self-satisfaction, until our awe of the sternly dignified faculty and the dominance of the upper-classmen almost subdued our fiery spirit.

Our transition to sophomoreship in the second year of our voyage was a hectic one. We became imbued more deeply with our natural sense of superiority, and much more sophisticated in the matter of upper-classmen and teachers. We learned to face the fact that it was eminently desirable to gain the most knowledge with the least effort, and thus we were quite fitted to take over the duties of our class organization.

By the time we reached the glory of juniors, we had overcome all our youthful idiosyncracies, and had become adept at the art of superciliously patronizing the lowly "Frosh" and "Soph". Our first effort at unity was the election of our ship officers:

Captain ..... JOHN MORAN
First Officer ..... VICTOR GATTO
Second Officer ..... BARBARA FARWELL
Purser ..... FRANCIS POTTER

With their efficient help our Junior Prom, which took place in February, was adjudged a complete success.

At the beginning of our senior year we did ourselves justice by electing:

President ..... JOHN MORAN
Vice-President ..... ANNE SULLIVAN
Secretary ..... BARBARA FARWELL
Treasurer ..... BERNARD KAMINS

In February we proved our inherent superiority by producing the senior drama, "Miss Nelly of N'Orleans", in which every player excelled in his part.

The benefit performance for the Cambridge Welfare Society was held in March, and it is not too much to say that a great part of the success was due to those of our class whose enthusiasm and labor merited the acclaim which the entertainment received. This performance netted the fund over one thousand dollars, a worthy sum.

In the Prize Speaking contest, held in April of this year, five of the contestants were seniors. The prize for the girls went to Anne Conley, a member of our class.

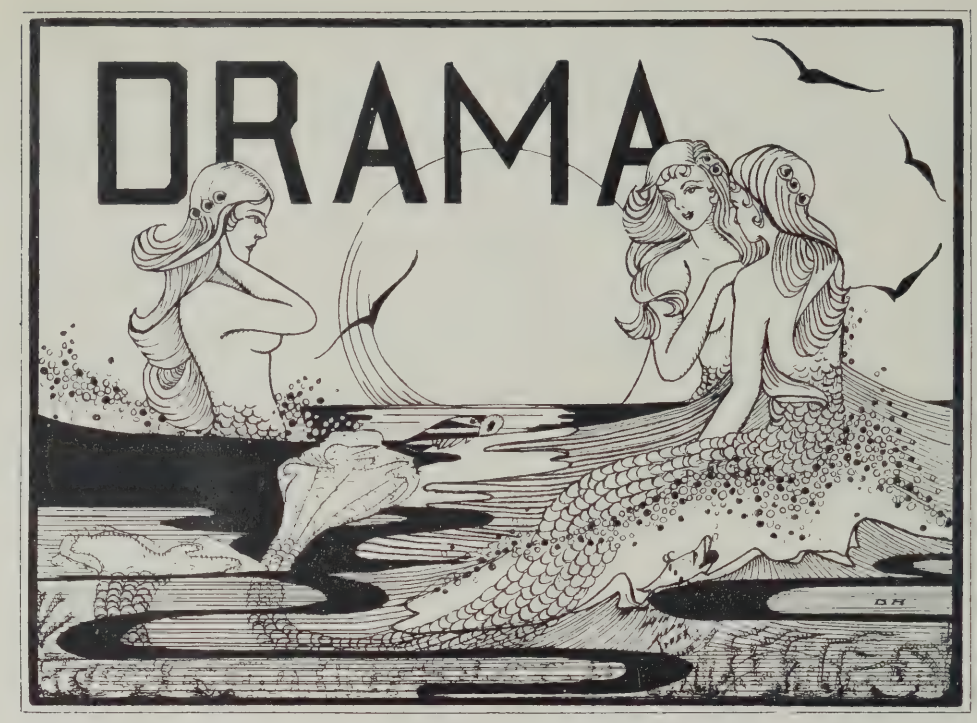
April 18th was Class Day, and the profusion of green bows, ribbons, neckties, shoe-laces, and lolly-pops, attested to the spirit of the class of '32. That evening the Senior Social took place in the Longfellow School. It is sufficient to say that its success was beyond all precedent.

That gala affair, the Senior Reception, will not be held until shortly after we reach our destination, but its popularity is assured. The committee in charge is composed of Joseph Palmer, William Scully, Richard Shine, Anne Sedorchuk, Winifred Burns.

Thus was our voyage. Four years of hard work and play successfully culminate on this seventh day of June. This graduation day brings to its destination the good old ship, "Thirty-Two". Soon we shall embark on a new quest, a new school, a new ship; but the ship of life, proudly, steadily, however serenely as she may carry us on our longer voyage, shall never erase from our memories the happy four years we spent aboard our ship of state, "Thirty-Two".

RITA LONG



During the four year cruise of the good ship C. H. L. S., one of our most important ports of call was Brattle Hall, where on the evenings of February fifth and sixth we saw some of our crew present "Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans", a southern drama.

The story itself which, by the way, was written by Lawrence Eyre, uncle of a fellow passenger, deals with the tangled romances of Nelly Daventry, formerly a famous belle, and her charming young niece, Delphine Falaise. Georges Durand, of an old Creole family, his son Felix, and André Clement, also of the old New Orleans stock, are the gentlemen involved.

Arriving home from a long sojourn in Paris, Nelly Daventry discovers, to her consternation, that Delphine is in love with Felix Durand, a combination which for some reason is disturbing to her. Aided by her faithful friend André, she does all she can to break up the friendship of the young couple, even going so far as to encourage Felix when he turns his attentions to her. In the meantime, Mr. Durand, who is equally opposed to the match, attempts to prevent it, but in such a way that he and Miss Nelly are continually working at cross purposes. Eventually after it has been revealed that a romance between these two had long ago ended in a broken engagement, the misunderstanding is righted. As the curtain falls, we see the youthful lovers rejoined and the older couple happy once again in their renewed love.

Eleanor Campbell as Miss Nelly did a splendid and convincing piece of work. Her subtle interpretation of the character brought out in relief Miss Nelly's wit and attractive power which remained unchanged by the years. Her fine performance served to confirm our high opinion of her histrionic ability. Mary Jordan in the part of Delphine was charming and natural. She portrayed very realistically the perplexed young girl whose romance is temporarily shattered by meddling elders.

And as for Georges Durand, no better person could have been chosen than William Baker, who assumed the dignity of a man of the world with ease and nonchalance, and displayed to perfection the wrath and annoyance which Miss Nelly's sauciness aroused. His French accent deserves highest praise.

The youthful lover, Felix, was ably played by Edwin Packard who did full justice to the part. Felix's ardent infatuation for Miss Nelly was skillfully depicted, and in the second act, Packard's pleasing song proved his versatility.

Paul Brennan as André Clement did some fine acting, and in a very satisfactory way he played the polite southern gentleman, ever ready to help the lady he admired.

The beautiful octaroon, Melanie Cardanne, was vividly delineated by Anne Provost, both when she was disguised as a French girl and when she was in her own person. Her screams of terror at the voodoo sent shivers up and down many a spine.

The southern atmosphere, which was created and maintained by lovely realistic scenery picturing an old garden in New Orleans, was also due in no small measure to the character parts of the three negro servants: Angelique, Unc' Boz, and Zephyrine.

Cecilia Holt gave a fine representation of easy-going Angelique. Her singing of the negro melody added greatly to the impression. Mary Falvey, too, as the meddlesome old Zephyrine was funny as could be, and furnished the audience with more than one laugh. And who would have recognized Bernard Kamins in the bent shuffling old servant? His dialect was fine and he, too, added to the humor of the play. Victor Gatto's somersaults as the reveller displayed his agility.

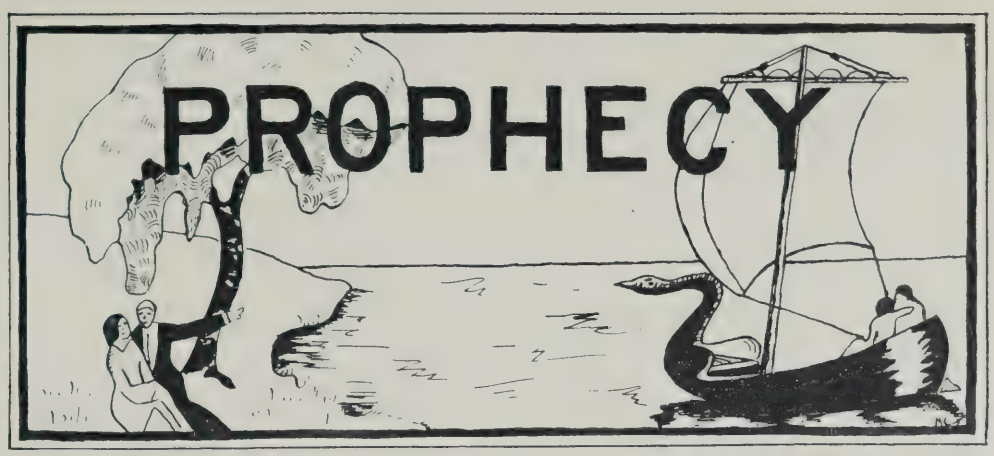
The gay dancing and serenading of the revellers, Rita Cassidy, Charles Demurjian, Ida Donovan, Helen Geary, Charles Parker, and Albert Wilson contributed to the effectiveness of the performance, as did the southern melodies played by the orchestra under the direction of Miss Wait.

SENIOR DRAMA COMMITTEE
Second Row: K. Keough, Miss Hartigan.
First Row: E. Campbell, J. Rokicki, M. Falvey.

Between the acts, our sweet tooth was satisfied by the K. B. girls who sold candy.

Much of the credit for the success of the occasion was due to the Drama Committee and to Miss Hartigan, whose splendid coaching makes our dramas what they are.

And so having bid farewell to her temporary harbor, the good ship C. H. L. S. sailed on, carrying with her the most pleasant of memories.



Lightning flashed like a glowing golden reptile across the icy, black, turbulent waters. Then came a crashing, deadening roar that seemed to cause the very firmament to shudder and grow dim. Our vessel which was braving this angry sea, was being tossed and slashed about, for she was fighting the elements, and so far she was winning. Crash went the main mast, down tore the sails, and the elements had won!

"She's sinking! Man the life boats!" cried Joe Palmer, our intelligent and efficient captain. Among those who were stepping gingerly into the life boats was Manes Specter, the great philosopher, who was daily turning out theories which even the now-aged Einstein couldn't figure out. Behind him was his friend Walter Dwyer, the financial genius, who brought his splendid ability to the public eye by distributing throughout the country the fortune which John Sweeney amassed from his "Sweeney's Depressionless Pills".

Ah! the hulk of another ship is appearing on the horizon, which upon coming nearer proved to be the "A. C. Conley", named after the peppy little entertainer of our high school days, who is now a famous dancer. The boat had come in answer to our distress signals. All the passengers save one from our ship had been safely conveyed to the rescuing boat. Who is that haughty damsel who is about to enter the life boat? On closer inspection she proved to be none other than Constance Redstone, that most proper soul of our Latin School days. With her was our good old dramatic friend of '32, Eleanor Campbell, and I just had to shout out a note of welcome to them.

My attention was soon drawn however, to a figure standing apart from the others on board, who was evidently reproducing on canvas the mad beauty of the storm. Approaching her to view the painting, I recognized Constance Overlock. She was soon joined by Rita Long, the well known literary artist, whose appreciation of the storm found an outlet in beautiful verse which would raise those who might read it to ecstatic heights. I left their interesting company in search of the captain, but was detained by Louise Magill, who kept me engaged in a lengthy discussion on men in general. Our conversation was finally interrupted by the appearance on the scene of Frances Carr and Rita Cassidy, two young teachers who were on their summer vacation. We renewed the acquaintance which we had formed at Cambridge Latin, and in the course of the conversation, I discovered that John Moran, an international attorney of great note, was taking charge of a celebrated divorce case. I also learned that Charles Littlefield was now official crooner in Ethel Newman's new night club. His favorite song is a composition written by that musical genius, Arthur Frechette.

I was quite overjoyed when I was told of Palmyra Dacamera's success in the musical world, and I determined to go to hear her the next time she favored New York with a visit.

After bidding these charming instructors farewell, I journeyed on down to the smoking room, where I picked up the "New Yorker", a clever magazine which was now edited by Emily Whitman with the invaluable assistance of that "femme savante" Barbara Sweetser. It contained several good book reviews written by Emily Fetter. Upon perusing the theatre page, I discovered that William Baker was playing the lead in Catherine Sanders latest play. I noticed that several of the original sketches were done by Doris Mabey, a very skilled artist.

The boat finally landed at an apparently deserted spot. We had not progressed far, however, when we came across a sign labelled "Sullivan's Inn". Upon arriving at the hotel, we were greeted by a very stunning and gracious hostess, Miss Eleanor Verrill. After dining sumptuously on Shine's Tantalizing coffee, Kelley's brownies, Gregory's bon-bons, and other such nourishing bits, I was forced to take a box of Falvey's Indigestion Pills and retire for the rest of the evening.

However, the sun was shining merrily when I awoke the next morning, and I dashed to my suitcase to procure some of Zang's Bird Seed to feed the devastating little blue bird that was gazing with such mournful eyes into my boudoir. Feeling very benevolent, after I had accomplished that deed of kindness, I hurried downstairs to breakfast on some moonkist grape fruit, which was all I dared to eat after the repast of the night before. Just as the first bit of juice decided to make the acquaintance of my poor right eye, I felt a tap on the shoulder, and upon looking up to see who desired to speak with me, I saw the face of Flora McLean, the brilliant student, at whose brain power we marvelled during our high school career. She told me that she was now instructing little hopefuls in the art of translating such interesting bits of Latin lore as Julius Caesar and Cicero. What a life! She also told me of Anne Cleveland's noble endeavors in the social service field.

Ah well, I could not stay in this delightful inn forever, so bidding my fellow travelers farewell, I hopped into Virginia Kelley's private car, and that dear soul drove me to the station. The station master, Bernard Kamins, sold me a ticket to New York, and just as I was about to board the train, I bumped into Edwin Packard, who I discovered was in charge of a branch of the Little Theatre in New York. He told me of a comedy written by Ken Chase which he was producing. The cast included: Lilwen Lewis, Muriel Piper, Barbara Nichols, Mary Jordan, Anna Provost, Paul Brennan, Al Wilson, Arnold Heller, and John Symmington. I assured him that with such a cast it could not fail to be an uproarious success.

As we sat discussing the daring flight that "Bud" Walsh was planning to undertake in a plane designed especially for him by Grinnell Jones, we were joined by Thomas Myles, who at this point was quite the sophisticated man of the world. He told us that he was taking the trip to New York to join William Scully and Edward Peterson in their project which was to erect a skyscraper which would rival the Empire State Building. They were being backed by George Emerson, a prominent New York banker.

When I arrived in New York, I went right to the hotel which was under the management of Francis Potter. In the lobby I encountered Herschel Chesley, who invited me to join him at his box at the opera that evening. The famous soprano, Anna Sedorchuk, was singing "Carmen". Joseph Eisner was a member of the male chorus. During the intermission, I had a serious discussion with Helen Cannon on the lack of culture in the American youth.

The next morning walking down Fifth Avenue, I came across Kay Toomey's Beauty Salon. She was evidently keeping up the old motto, "Save the surface and you save all". I recognized a few of the lovely ladies sitting inside as Mae Mahoney, Eleanor Lorrigan, Dorothy Sullivan, and Ida Donovan. Further on I came across Miss Elaine Goodell's Salon where there were several strikingly beautiful styles displayed. I recognized the young lady just coming out of the shop as Barbara Evers who was evidently still indulging her taste for lovely apparel.

Travelling on down the street I met two bespectacled, rather round shouldered, very intellectual looking men whom I recognized as George Budroe and George Rundlet. They told me that they were both teaching Greek at New York University. Evidently the studious inclination of their high school days had continued! A little further down the avenue my notice was attracted to a vivid poster announcing the fact that William McFadden and Oliver La Ronde, both famous football stars, were members of the All American team.

I finally arrived at my office on Wall Street with many happy memories dancing through my head, memories revived by the renewal of so many dear acquaintances formed in the happiest years of my life — those spent at Cambridge High and Latin School.

THE REVIEW

In spite of the depression the Review has had an unusually successful year. While the circulation was not so high as it has been in past years, the Review has managed to pay its expenses and has a balance for the next year, mirabile dictu. The Review keenly felt the absence of Miss Hardy, who had given so much of her time and energy to it in past years, but we feel that it has prospered under Miss Bligh's able guidance.

The staff issued five very successful numbers this year, which compare favorably with any that have been printed in recent years. A short story contest was run with very gratifying results, and interest seems to have been aroused in the lower class pupils as well as those of the upper divisions. We feel that there is a great deal of talent in the school, if only the pupils would use it! It is evident that if an interest in writing for the Review could once be found, the volume of our school paper would n-crease noticeably.

May we now offer a few words of suggestion to future staffs? It is our opinion that the Review will become less amateurish if every year a certain number of juniors are trained so that they may, as seniors, step into the responsible positions. It is really necessary that there be people with experience on the staff each year. This plan has been suggested before, but has not been followed as is evident from the fact that not one person on this year's staff had ever before worked on a school magazine.

We sincerely wish that all future staffs may have as pleasant and as successful a year as we have had this past year under Miss Bligh.

The High School Annex was begun in 1923 under the competent direction of Mr. James H. Leonard. Mr. Charles Cote and Mr. Maurice Phelan were assigned as teachers. Mr. Carney came in 1928, followed by Mr. O'Brien in 1929, Mr. Murphy in 1930, Mr. Mullens, Mr. Lynch and Mr. Gibson in 1931.

We boast of quite a number of star athletes. Among them are: James West, Joseph McKenna, John McCarthy, football; Joseph Burke, hockey; Joseph Rudgis, baseball.

Another item of note is the Phi Club. It has not catered to a select group of students, but all who wish to join are accepted. The officers for the club this year are: Maurice Specter, President; George Mulgrew, Vice-President; John Reedy, Secretary; and Mr. Phelan, Treasurer.

We regret the resignation of Mr. Charles Cote, a very popular teacher, who has left to enter business.

The members of the Phi Club wish to extend their thanks to the Alumni for their aid in securing the scholarship.

Mr. Leonard has done much with the aid of the other teachers to give us a complete education. We, the undergraduates, appreciate what our instructors have done to brighten our school days.

KLAWHOWJAHA BJUSTOFF CLUB

Despite the cloak of depression in which everyone and everything seems to be shrouded, the K. B. Club under the expert guidance of Miss McElroy and Miss Murray has known a most successful year both socially and financially. We started out the year by admitting new members, and at Constance Overlock's house was held the last of the torturing type of initiation. The new formal type was introduced in December when we admitted a second group of new members. There was much dignity displayed at the home of Anne Conley, our honored president, the evening when the second initiation was held.

In the cause of charity, we held a bridge at the Commander Hotel, and a dance at the Cantabrigia Club. Both of these affairs proved most successful. Certainly the depression was forgotten on these two gay occasions. The proceeds from these enterprises and from the sale of candy at the Senior Drama will enable us to send several needy children away to the country for the summer. Moreover, by means of the contributions of the members, the club has also been able to help the poor by sending baskets at Thanksgiving and Christmas to several Cambridge families who were in bad straits.

We are planning further social activities including a week-end at some summer resort. Thus in a whirl of gaiety, end the affairs of the K. B. Club, which has been managed so well this year by its capable officers: President, Anne Conley; Treasurer, Francis Carr; Secretary, Louise Magill.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB OFFICERS

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

This year, as always, we find the Home Economics Club coming through with flying colors. Our membership almost doubled that of last year. Every member was a personification of enthusiasm and coöperation.

At the beginning of the season the club gave an informal tea. At this party we christened the beautiful pewter tea set which was presented by the Home Economics Club of 1931. Our Christmas party was a great success. Everyone had plenty of fun and too much to eat! The members enjoyed two wonderful trips to the Cambridge Hospital, where the superintendent was our guide.

The club is extremely well favored in having for its advisers Miss Morgan and Miss Harrington.

Our very competent officers for the past year were: President, Mary Falvey; Vice-President, Mary Jordan; Secretary, Kathryn Keough; Treasurer, Ann Moran.

The officers were assisted in their work by the executive committee which included Elsie Mulligan, Ellen Anostas, Clair Toomey, Antoinette Szostak, Margaret Edwards, Josephine Barcykowska, May Hennessy, Ann Concannon, and Eileen O'Brien.

Second Row: Palmer, McFadden, West, Boucher, Johnson, Kyricos, Nichols, La Ronde, (Captain), Petrusionis, J. Carchia, Hopkins, Powers, Sullivan, Healey.

Our 1931-32 football season was very unsuccessful. Our team failed to win even one game. It must, however, be taken into consideration that the schedule played was difficult. We numbered among our opponents not only our regular Suburban League competitors, but also Brockton, Salem, and several other powerful teams. Not once were we defeated by more than thirty points, while often the margin of victory for the other team was only a touchdown.

When Coaches MacDonald and Sheehan called for candidates at the beginning of the year, they found that they had fairly good prospects as well as several veterans, notably Captain La Ronde, Carchia, Dzendolet, Johnson, Powers, Hamilton, Kyricos, McFadden, and Hopkins. With these boys as a nucleus, they sought to develop a strong team. The line was strong and heavy, the backfield experienced and competent, and there was no lack of tried players. Nevertheless, the team was unable to click once during the entire year. Defensively it was strong, except against passes, but offensively it was erratic and weak.

Captain La Ronde was a bulwark on the defense and a strong line-plunger. Carchia and Sullivan played hard and effective games the whole season. Hopkins was our regular kicker, and did fine work. Dzendolet and Kyricos at the tackle positions, Hamilton and Powers at the ends — all played well, while Boucher and McFadden were capable. Captain-elect Johnson, along with Feeley, was strong at the guards. The other regular players were Nichols, a freshman, who lacks nothing but experience, Petrusionis, and Palmer.

Those receiving letters were: Captain Oliver La Ronde, Captain-elect Daniel Johnson, Joseph Boucher, John Britt, John Carchia, Thomas Dunlevy, Arthur Dzendolet, James Feeley, John Gurry, Wilfred Hamilton, James Healy, Lawrence Hopkins, Anthony Kyricos, William McFadden, Albert Maguire, John Miliekis, George Nichols, Joseph Palmer, Albert Petrusionis, Joseph Powers, Joseph Ronzio, William Scully, James Sullivan, John Sweeney and James West.

HOCKEY TEAM

Third Row: Anderson, Powers, McFadden, Guthrie.
Second Row: Mr. Foley, Fleming, Crawley, Campbell, Allt, Fleming, Miles, Coach MacDonald.
First Row: Gurry, Desrosier, Hopkins, (Captain), Shine, Rooney.

HOCKEY

Our hockey team, playing as it did against the hardest kind of opposition was unable to win any of its regular league games. It tied Arlington, however, and won two games, both from private academies with good teams; so it may be easily seen that it was not weakness but our opponents' strength that caused us to lose as many games as we did.

Our first line of Desrosier, Rooney, and Allt did excellent work, but our second and third lines were poor. Lack of good substitutes weakened our team. Another disturbing factor was the impossibility of obtaining enough practice, and a deficiency of veteran players. Our best players were Powers, Desrosier, and Rooney. All these boys performed notably. Allt did yeoman work towards the end of the season.

The best game the boys played was against Medford. This game was full of action and good passing, and had our team done as well in the earlier games, it would have landed far from the bottom where we did land. Against Rindge the Latin group was powerless.

Captain-elect Desrosier was chosen on the All-Scholastic team at the end of the season. Powers and Rooney were given honorable mention.

BASKETBALL TEAM

Third Row: West, Pearson, Silver, Mahoney, Galluccio, Plausky.
Second Row: Cusick, Young, Klevis, Rogert, (Captain), Mahoney, Frisolio, Coffey.
First Row: Coach Kozlowsky, McKeever, Montgomery, Walsh, Kishkis, Maguire, Katz, Lynch, Mr. Foley.

BASKETBALL

Of all our winter sports teams, our basketball team was the most successful, with six wins out of seventeen games played.

Coach Kozlowski had an almost completely veteran aggregation, for all his players had been either on the first team or on the second team the year before. Despite this fact, the season was not very good. Our boys were not too inclined to run, and hence lost many games they might have won. However, there is a silver lining to this cloud. Every single one of the boys who played on the first team, with the exception of Katz, who was the only senior, is due to return.

The highlights of the season were our victories over Newton and Arlington. In these games the real strength of our team was shown. Rindge won from us the championship of the City of Cambridge, but only after the hardest of fights. The Somerville team was our nemesis, and prevented us from a possible Suburban League pennant.

Our outstanding player was Captain-elect John Klevis. He played brilliantly and consistently the entire season. Captain Rogert was effective, and Katz did good work. Mahoney, Frisoli, Maguire, Walsh, and Young completed the first team.

Those who received first team letters were: Captain Hyman Rogert, Captain-elect John Klevis, William Walsh, Albert Maguire, Edward Young, Sidney Katz, James Mahoney, Leonard Frisoli, and Manager John Cusack.

Our second team enjoyed a fine season, and won far more games than it lost.

Those who received second team letters were: Lawrence Sullivan, Charles West, Fred Lynch, Michael Kishkis, Fred Silva, William McKeever, Frank Montgomery, Norman Plausky, Joseph Hart, Anthony Galluccio, Kenneth Campbell, George Pearson and Assistant Manager William Coffey.

BASEBALL

Third Row: Batchelor, Anderson, McFadden, Rudgis, Moriarty, Hopkins, Coach MacDonald.
Second Row: Katz, W. Gurry, McMahon, Kelley, Capt., Madden, La Ronde, Powers.
First Row: Moran, Mahoney, Crawley, Konatowski, Galluccio, Swecki, Munroe.

BASEBALL

Baseball in Cambridge Latin took a decided upward turn this year.

Mr. MacDonald, our well-known coach, found at the calling out of candidates that he had a veteran outfield, Powers, La Ronde, and Rudgis, and one veteran pitcher, of all-scholastic caliber, John "Muggsy" Kelley. There were no experienced infielders, and an entire new cordon had to be constructed. How well these new boys, McFadden, McMahon, Crawley, and Hopkins, have done so far this year may be estimated by the fact that up to now we have won four games out of a possible five. We defeated Arlington 4 - 0, Malden 5 - 0, B. C. High 6 - 5, Somerville 3 - 2, while our only loss was sustained at the hand of Revere, 8 - 2. Kelley pitched all of the Arlington, Malden, and Somerville games, and the last two innings of the B. C. High game. Yet to lose, he has rolled an impressive strike-out record, and is conceded to be the best school-boy pitcher of the year.

The team is not very hard-hitting, as may be seen by the scores, but with the pitching it has been receiving, it will win by far the greater part of its games. Powers seems to be about the best slugger, and he is closely followed by Rudgis, McFadden, Crawley and La Ronde. The fielding has been good, Crawley, being especially sensational. Gallucio, though green, has been fairly satisfactory as a catcher. Hopkins, a former pitcher, has been holding down third-base well, and McMahon has been dependable at second.

Kelley has of course been the main cog of the team as well as its captain. He has been assisted in taking care of the mound duties by Mahoney and Anderson, the latter already having won a game, from B. C. High.

Following is the probable list of lettermen in Baseball: Captain Kelley, Anderson, Mahoney, Lackey, Galluccio, McFadden, McMahon, Crawley, Hopkins, Gurry, Sullivan, La Ronde, Rudgis, Katz.

First Row: R. Carchia, M. Chait, L. Blum, H. Hoffman, M. Rabinowitz, N. Klam, A. Valois, L. Levi, J. Carchia.

TRACK

Latin again has a track team this year, as usual under the direction of the popular Mr. Sheehan. So far this year the team has done nothing but practice around Russell Field, but it may possibly be entered in the Harvard Interscholastics. Let there be no vain imaginings, however, of the possibility of our winning. Almost all last year's veterans graduated, and the only experienced boys left are Rabinovitz, the two Carchias, Hoffman, Hamblin, Jozwicki and Dokten. Rabinovitz is the only letter-man.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The G. A. A. is an organization established for the purpose of affording pleasure to all its members. This year the officers have worked exceedingly hard to give us a successful season, and they have well accomplished their task. We have had much helpful advice and many suggestions from our faculty-adviser, Miss Brown.

A double Tennis Tournament was held in September, for which the winners, Dorothy Falvey and Emily Long received miniature silver tennis racquets. Initiation, which was feared by the freshmen, proved to be nothing to worry about. We started the year off with a Freshman Social, which was well attended. November 14, a Moving Picture Party was held in the gym. Each member represented a character from a moving picture or a movie title. On November 25, the club officers took four well filled Thanksgiving baskets to needy families.

At our Girl Dance, which took place in the gym, half the girls come dressed as boys, and everyone had a good time. A Christmas Party was given in the hall on December 21, with a short play, "A Real Christmas", which was acted by an able cast.

The Boy Dance was attended by a large group of the members with their escorts. The girls in their gowns of different hues made a fairy land of the gym. This dance was a financial as well as a social success.

On April 1st, a masquerade dance was held. The costumes of the girls had taken much time and thought in the making, and the result was well worth the effort. This is the second dance of its kind we have had.

We are looking forward with interest and curiosity to the coming Freshman Return Party.

With the Spring, comes baseball, which is one of our favorite sports.

Swimming practices have been held every Saturday morning since January 30, at the Y. M. C. A., under the personal direction of Miss Ruth Fennessy, a former club member. We held a swimming meet with Somerville this year on March 31. There was also an Interclass Meet on April 12, at the Y. M. C. A.

We can hardly wait for the annual picnic at Kendall Green. This is the closing event of the year, to which all the members of the G. A. A. look forward with eagerness.

SENIOR BASKETBALL TEAM

In September 1931, a small but determined group of senior girls began their final year of basketball at Cambridge High and Latin School. With the fact in view that they might be handicapped by lack of players, they resolved to keep aloft their banner of class championship which they had won the previous year. With self-confidence gained by accuracy, with precision and skill won by practice, with sincerity grounded in class loyalty, this small group paved its way again to class championship. A gallant junior team finally succumbed, and the enthusiastic sophomore team also yielded to the seniors at last. The scores for the games were:

(1).	Junior	14 —	Senior 37
(2).	Junior	22 —	Senior 22
(3).	Junior	26 —	Senior 30
(4).	Sophomore	17 —	Senior 27
(5).	Sophomore	7 —	Senior 23

In the games with outside schools, the senior team showed the same indomitable spirit that was apparent in under-class competition. The first game, with Arlington, resulted in the defeat of our girls by a fine Arlington Team. Games with Belmont, Medford, Waltham and Newton were all victories for Cambridge seniors. The Cambridge players lost an exciting game with Wellesley by two points. The following record of the scores shows a list of which the senior team has every reason to be proud.

C. H. L. S. Seniors	15 — Arlington	26
C. H. L. S. Seniors	17 — Belmont	16
C. H. L. S. Seniors	69 — Medford	9
C. H. L. S. Seniors	24 — Wellesley	26
C. H. L. S. Seniors	42 — Waltham	23
C. H. L. S. Seniors	27 — Newton	25

Here is is well to mention a few to whom the seniors are indebted for this fine record. First is Miss Brown to whom every senior wishes to extend loving gratitude and praise for the sportsmanship, interest, and understanding she has shown us. Her senior girls will never forget her.

Then let us consider the team itself. Helen Kenney and Winifred Burns will always be remembered for their accuracy, team play, and skill in "finding" the basket, while Esther Flemming more than once has very successfully filled the forward position. Clara Cormier, kept the ball at our end of the field by her speedy action in center, in coöperation with Rita Doneski, who although new to our ranks last year, won herself a permanent place on the senior team. In the guard positions were Mary Falvey, Louise Hodge, and Gertrude Lancaster, each doing worthy work in preventing the score of her adversary from rising. Among our group let us not forget Myrtle White, Una Gore, and Philomena Di Lallo, who, in the class series, played on the second team. Catherine Brownrigg, our manager, deserves great credit and praise for her untiring and faithful service. To her the seniors wish to extend their thanks.

In closing, may we mention the new suits of the seniors. With white sport blouses, green tailored bloomers, green ties and socks, and black and white sneakers, the team presented a very attractive appearance. Thus ends the basketball history of the class of 1932.

SWIMMING TEAM
Second Row: Cecile Coté, Clara Cormier.
First Row: Esther Flemming, Anne Sullivan, (Capt.), Winifred Burns.

Varsity Team

An extraordinary state of circumstances appeared this year in basketball. Then senior team as a whole became the Varsity. Still more extraordinary was the record they made, that of an undefeated season. Each opposing team went down to defeat before an unconquerable Varsity. The scores of the games were:

C. H. L. S. Varsity 39 — Alumnae 19
C. H. L. S. Varsity 20 — Wellesley 18
C. H. L. S. Varsity 37 — Somerville 13

Helen Kenney, excelling both as a forward and as a sportsman of the finest type, captained the Varsity in its victorious season. Winifred Burns, Clara Cormier, Rita Doneski, Louise Hodge, and Gertrude Lancaster were the other members.

Basketball Luncheon

A luncheon, the second of its kind, was held for all basketball players, March 26, at the Riverbank Court Hotel. About fifty girls assembled to enjoy an excellent luncheon and the afternoon of merriment which followed. It is hoped that this luncheon will be repeated each year as a fitting climax for a very happy season of basketball.

Senior Baseball Team

A small but enthusiastic group of senior girls reported for baseball this spring. Under the guidance of Miss Brown and the leadership of Winifred Burns, they have completed a very successful season. Interclass games and games with teams from other cities have provided interesting competition for all concerned. In the Varsity team there were several senior girls to represent the class.

DEBATING

The debating activities in our school have made rapid strides toward success because of the excellent foundation laid in the debating classes organized in the past two years. It was indeed gratifying to note with what enthusiasm this subject has been received by the members of the student body. Debating has grown to such an extent that it now assumes an important part in the activities of many of the pupils. May this same interest and zeal continue to be shown in the future years!

Contests with teams representing Lynn Classical and Swampscott High School were featured by timely questions and masterful oratory. The veteran team composed of Martin Tagerman, John Moran, and Joseph Hogan, gave us the most outstanding example of C. H. L. S. oratory in its long and eventful history. Their encounters with the different teams were marked with fire and eloquence worthy of high praise.

The climax of this activity was seen in the annual Durrell Prize Debate in which participated the cream of the school speakers. It proved to be, by far, the most successful from the standpoint of forensic ability. The question discussed was "Resolved — that a form of Unemployment Insurance Should Be Adopted by the Several States." Again, as in other meets, Martin Tagerman, starred with his usual eloquence that bodes no good for his opponents.

The classes of Miss Margaret Breau participate in weekly forums on timely subjects. Extemporaneous speaking which holds an important place in the development of good speakers has also been introduced. Next year we should see teams worthy to represent C. H. L. S. as were the predecessors in the happy past. But, alas, time flies, and so must we close another chapter in the story of debating in C. H. L. S.

Be it remembered that we, the crew of the good ship "Cambridge High and Latin School" being of unsound mind, due to excessive study, but knowing the uncertainty of the voyage ahead of us, do hereby pronounce this our last will and testament.

In consideration of services rendered and value received, we hereby make the following bequests:

To the Seamen: (Freshmen)

We do hereby leave a "Downey" couch that they may rest in peace while a test is going on.

To the Able-Bodied Seamen: (Sophomores)

We leave the "Bliss" which will come to them when they receive their marks in the mid-year examination.

To the Ensigns: (Juniors)

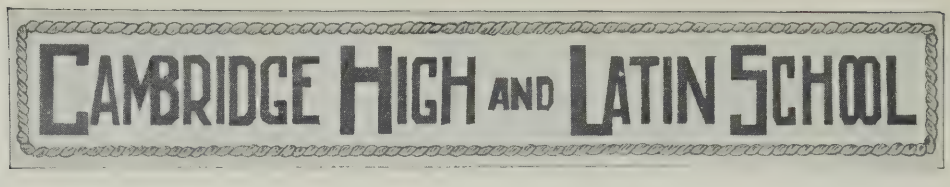
1. We leave all handcarved desks and artistically decorated text books which are used in fourth year work.
2. We also bequeath the last minute grinding to secure credits which are necessary for graduation.

To the Captain: (Mr. Cleveland)

For general disposition we leave our bank account of $205.10 which is being so carefully guarded for us. Fifty dollars of this, however, should be used to purchase interlinear trots for the second and third year Latin classes.

A few special items are hereby bequeathed as follows:

1. To the trophy case we are gratified to bequeath the many awards brought home by our victorious athletes.
2. To Mr. Cain we are proud to bequeath a new desk absolutely devoid of scratches, paint, or splinters.
3. To the entire student body we bequeath a lifetime subscription to the "Review", that they may never more be solicited by subscription managers, however handsome.
4. To all the pupils who wish to go to the "K. B." dances in years to come, we bequeath one square inch of space upon which they may dance all evening. (Our generosity overwhelms us!)
5. To the Classical Library we bequeath copies of "College Humor" and "Ballyhoo". We believe that pupils' study periods will then be occupied more profitably.
6. To our school we leave records of the highest type of scholarship.



In testimony, whereof, we hereunto set our hand, and in the presence of three witnesses declare this to be our last will and testament, on this seventh day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two.

On this seventh day of June, the crew of 1932 signed the foregoing instrument on the deck of the good ship "Cambridge High and Latin School" in our presence, declaring it to be the last will and testament, and as witness, thereof, we three do now, in the presence of each other, hereunto subscribe our names.

Epilogue

With a chorus of friendly farewells and hearty grasps of the hand, the passengers slowly take leave of the ship which has provided so much adventure and pleasure for the last four years. We take leave of C. H. L. S. with mixed feelings: pain at parting, and yet eagerness to see what comes next. Whatever our futures may be, we shall never forget the four years which we have spent here.
